Bride's Sister Carries Veil

Bernice Sarah Burley
Bride of John Edgar Garratt

Belleville, Aug. 8 (Special)—A charming wedding took place yesterday afternoon, when Bernice Sarah, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood G. Burley, became the bride of John Edgar Garratt, of Wellington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace E. Garratt, of Wellington. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride by Rev. I. B. Naylor, pastor of Tabernacle United Church.

Pink and white gladioli decorated the living room where the ceremony was performed. Miss Helen Darrah played the wedding music. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory satin, fashioned on fitted lines and trimmed with Brussels lace. Her tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms, and she carried a bouquet of Premier roses.

Miss Edith Burley, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid, and wore a frock of yellow organdy with matching accessories. Little Miss Audrey Burley was flower girl, and wore a blue organdy dress and carried a basket of pink snapdragons. Little Miss Barbara Burley carried her sister's veil. Mr. Herbert Burley, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

After the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served. Mrs. Burley received the guests and wore a gown of powder blue crepe with matching accessories. Mrs. Barratt, mother of the groom, wore navy blue with gray accessories. Later the couple left on a wedding trip through Ontario and the Eastern States, the bride wearing a smart ensemble of brown and maize. On their return they will reside in Wellington.

Among the guests at the wedding were Mrs. Lucy Church, of Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Percy Wannamaker, of Kitchener; Mr. and Mrs. T. Tipp, of Picton; Mr. D. Wannamaker, of Picton; Mr. Ben Burley, Mr. and Mrs. J. Lavender, of Wellington; Mr. and Mrs. E. Burley, Bloomfield, and Lieut. G. I. and Mrs. Ingram, of Wellington.

THE EVENING

when he had put Noel on the bed last night and looked at her.

For a fraction of a second their eyes met. Noel came back to reality from her dream and saw Linda staring at her with a white face under the cap of red curls.

"Noel," Linda asked, "do you love him, too?"

Linda put down her brush.

"I love Scott," Noel said, "Linda, do you—"

"Yes. Oh, my dear, you and I both love him and he loves neither of us. I know him better than you. He's a fine man. There is none finer. Women love him because he's the sort of man all women want to love. But Scott doesn't want a sweet companion such as you or I would be. He wants a woman he can worship and adore and protect. He can't protect us because we don't need protection—we are strong."

"Last night," said Noel, "he tried to tell me something. But I knew he didn't love me as much as I want him to love me."

"I have never told him how I feel toward him," said Linda.

"I couldn't help it. I didn't think.

"I know, but I am older than you, Noel. I know Scott well. But where love and marriage are concerned he has very definite ideas. He said to me once, 'The woman I shall love with all my heart must be as beautiful as a dream. I want to give her everything in the world and I want her only to love me and be with me. I have a good pal in you, Linda, but I could never love a good pal.' You see, Noel?"

"His idea of love isn't my idea."

"Nor mine." She laughed bravely. "We two love the same man. Love is a game, Noel, and you and I don't play good cards. Scott is wrong and he will have to find it out. It will take some beautiful woman, shallow and superficial, to break his heart and bring him down to earth."

"Then it will be—"

"You. I've watched him since he's known you. I've walked in his room and seen him sitting there, smoking, thinking. You make him think and wonder if perhaps he isn't wrong. He wants to worship the woman he marries and he doesn't realize that the woman he is looking for isn't capable of a great or enduring love."

"You'd give him up to me, Linda?"

"I had given him up before I knew you." She sighed and smiled. "I want him to love you. You're very young now, but it's best to love when you're young. When you get older, it isn't the same."

Noel looked down at her hands. "I'm glad you told me this. I've been foolish, I guess. Now I'll know

To the Editor,

Dear Sir,

I was much interested in one of your last numbers dealing with research work done by some of your graduates, and relating the various scientific specialties in which they are engaged. In my quality of student in Science, I enjoyed very much to learn of the splendid work they are doing. You would oblige me very much by sending to me at the above address a couple of copies of this issue.

P. 6. On May 30th the steamboat "Sir Robert Peel" was captured & burnt by a party of "patriots" near the mouth of French Creek, in the St. Lawrence, consequence of which £1000.00 in money, of £5000.00, was induced to offer a reward, £500.00 for the apprehension of William George, late of French Creek, also £500.00 each for the capture of Daniel O'Leary, Samuel C. Sir George Cull, the first Governor of that province, also issued a proclamation offering a reward for the capture of the rebels, & to still, finding no prospect of retaliation upon the rebels or prospect of entry of the United States, (which indeed threats had been publicly made)

Dear Dr. Burleigh

Many thanks for your prompt reply to my letter. I mentioned the Burley you spoke of who attended Albert College to my father, and, he said he remembers such a person visiting Money more many years ago from the West, but only once and he wasn't sure of the family connection.

So far my search seems to be going in circles, but in the meantime I am meeting some very interesting people. I've talked to a man who remembers my grandfather, great grandfather very well and has a vague recollection of my great-great grandfather. My great-great grandfather, who was originally from Ireland is reported to have died at the age of 107 in the year of 1903. I'm sure of the date as I've contacted the Registrar General, but they show in their records he was approximately 92 years old at death. His wife, so I've been told, was 93 when she died early 1900's, but so far I've not found a death record. All, in all, as I say I've not been too lucky with concrete information, but have totally enjoyed the contact with so many people!

Well, thought I would just drop you a line for your time in visiting me and to say thank you. Maybe some day I'll be able to tell you more about our family. One thing I've found and that is that, a "Burleigh" is not a Burley and a "Burleigh" is not a Burley. My family spelling, so I am told is Catholic and goodness knows that all my "Burleigh" Loyal Orange forefathers would turn in their graves at such a connection.

Bless -

Bonnie (Burley) Hickson

The Burleight mill at Courtland was on lot 162 south of the Talbot Road and that was the farm on which I was born many years ago.

I am expecting to eventually acquire more information on the families in the Bethel cemetery area where there are now descendants of Gordon Burley living. When I get some data, I'll be glad to let you have it.

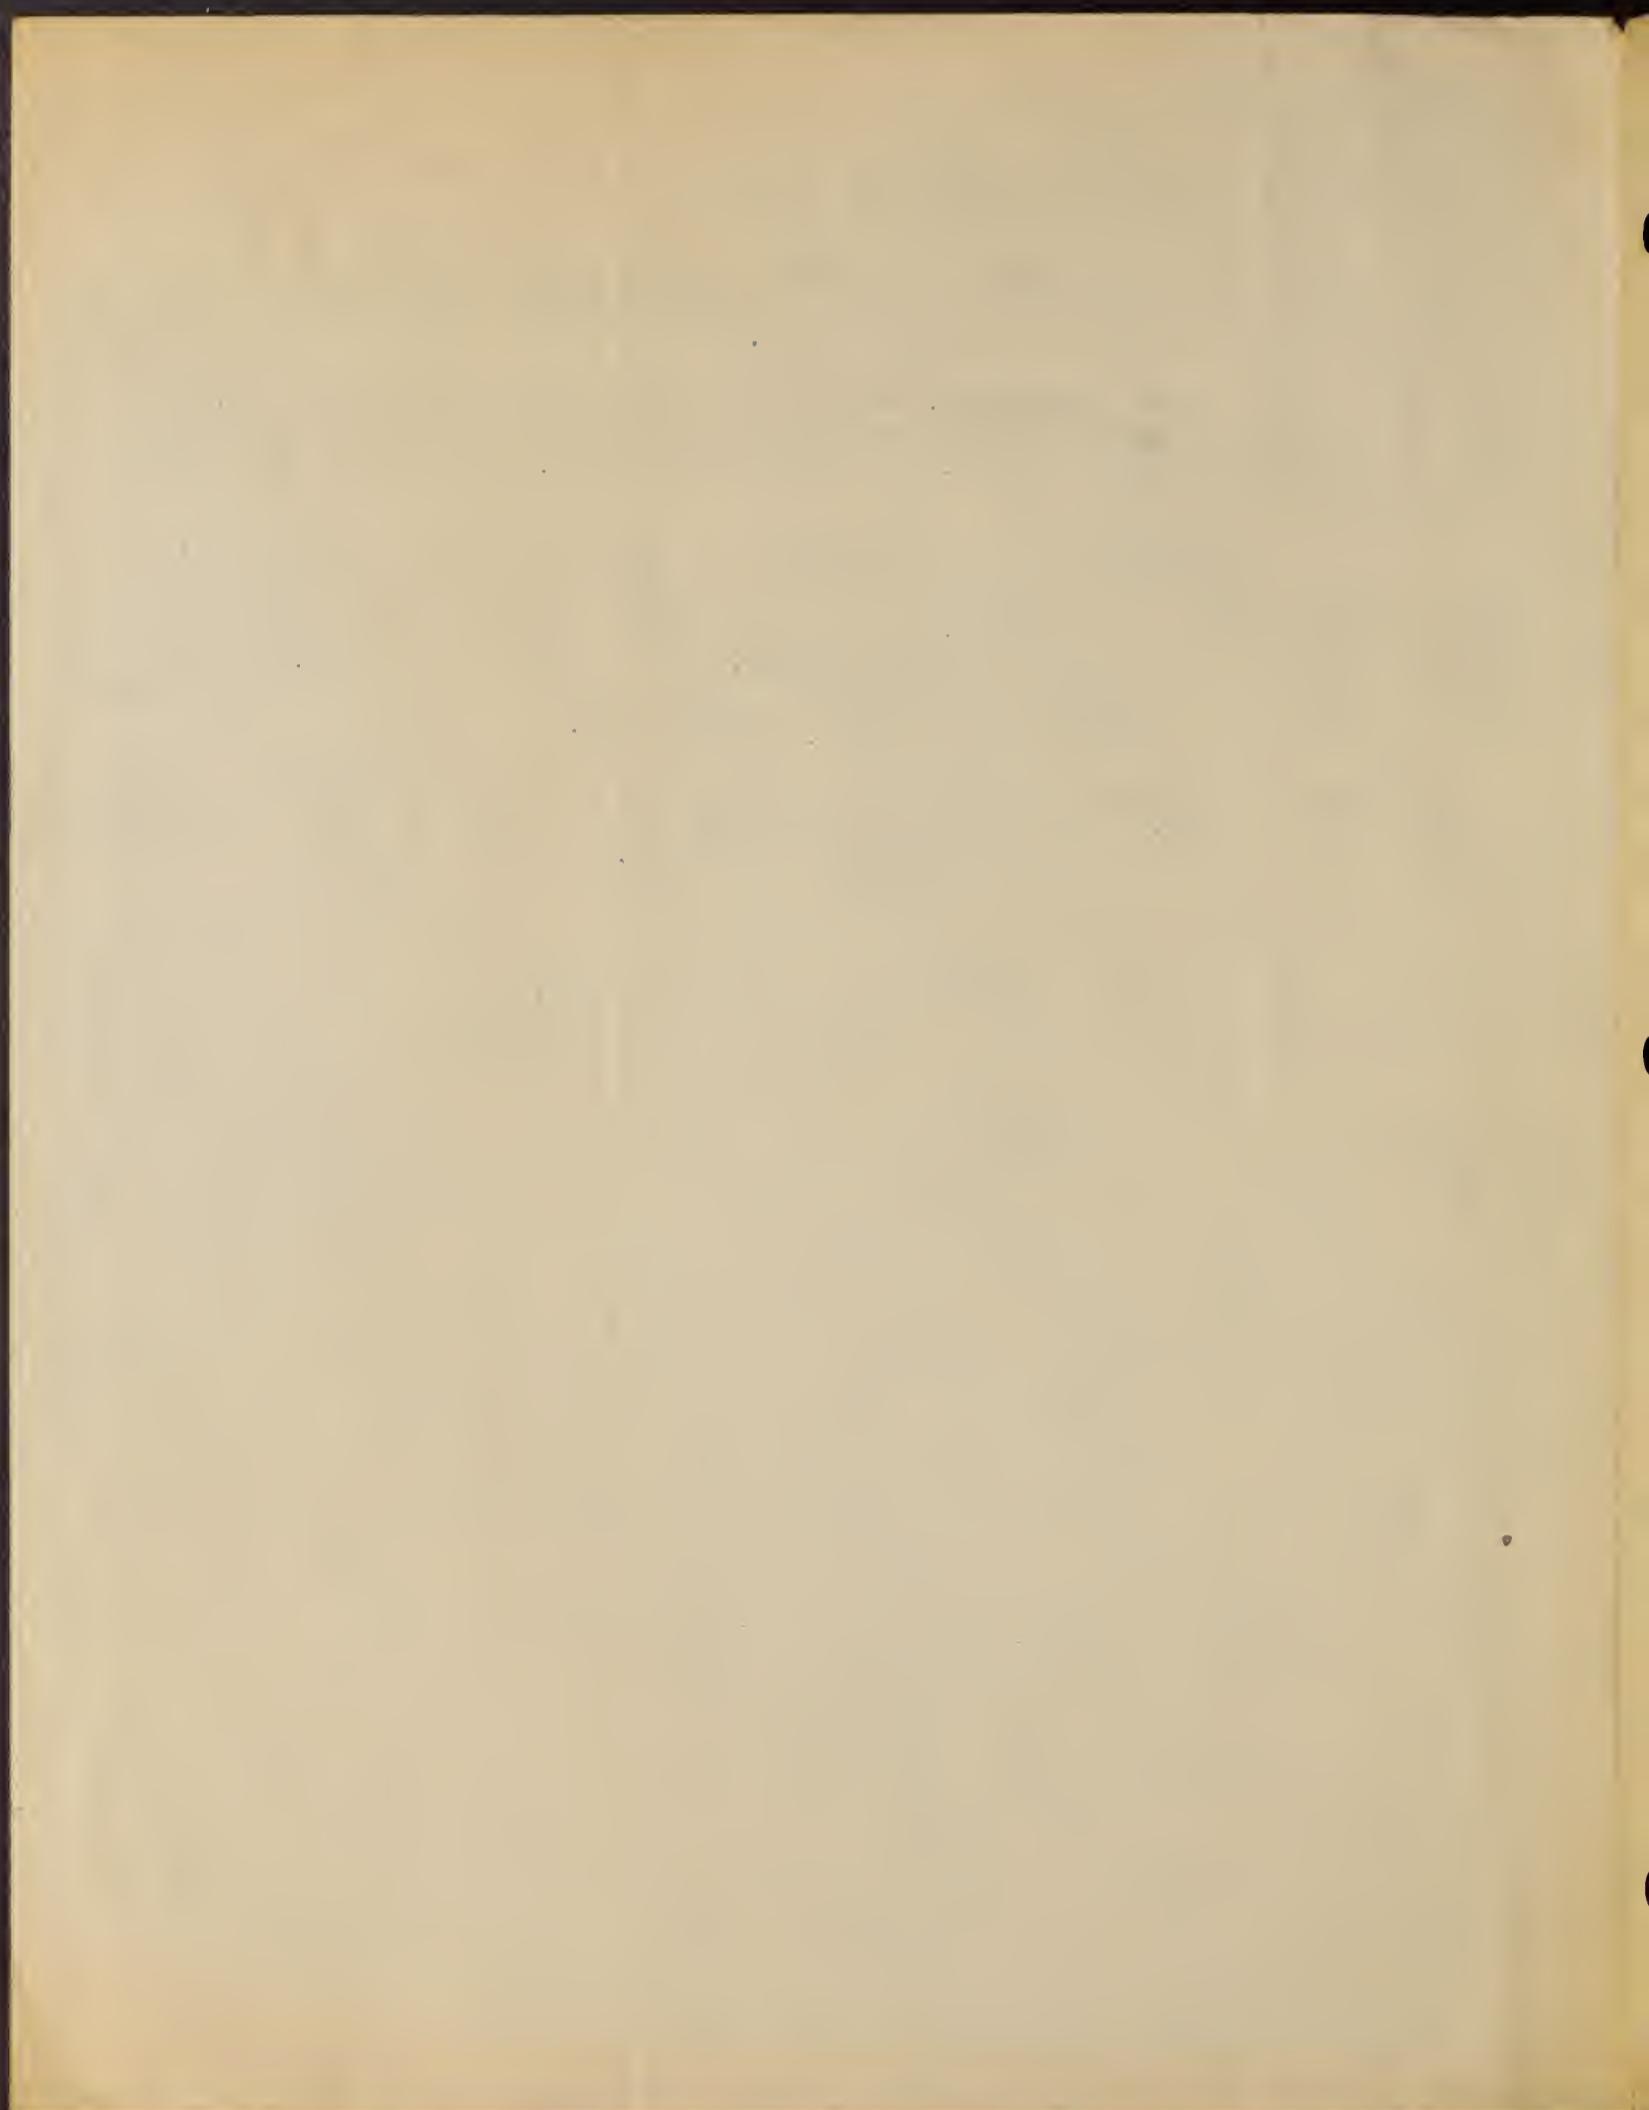

And now - recently a David G. Harris of Stevenson, Washington 98648, U.S. has written me about his Harris family which seems to have settled in the Rice Lake area. David Harris married Katrene Palmer. He was the first David. Do you have anything on these Harrises?

Also I am interested in getting some history of the early Bucks who settled in the Kingston area. I believe the first one was George. Perhaps if I could get an address for a Buck - it would help. I am also related to Bucks - Phillip who came to Canada from the banks of the Susquehannah River. He was a Butler's Ranger. He had at least 12 children - half born in the States and nearly all sons. I believe a George Buck, who may have been his brother, settled in your area.

Thanking you and if I can be of further use to you, just let me know as I have a great stack of data. I take all that is offered to me and file it away. I love this work although it must be for the present, just a hobby.

Sincerely,

Orena ~~Hanley~~
